When you meet someone with truly impressive credentials, you can't help but think they might possess superhuman powers. Dr. Michael Bogdan is one of these people, but you would never guess it from his easy-going, unpretentious demeanor. And this is just as Dr. Bogdan wants it. He's not one to toot his own horn. What matters to him is creating natural-looking results for his patients through highly customized procedures, staying abreast of the latest advances in his field through research and education, and of course, patient safety. He also believes it's important to enjoy what you do for a living.

"Going to the office is not work for me. I love helping my patients, whether their objective is to look more youthful, reverse the toll pregnancy has taken on their body, or improve upon a feature," says Dr. Bogdan, a board-certified plastic surgeon who has focused 100 percent of his practice on cosmetic surgery.

FROM NIH SCIENTIST TO STANFORD-EDUCATED, FELLOWSHIP-TRAINED PLASTIC SURGEON

Interested in science from a young age, Dr. Bogdan performed research at the National Institutes of Health and the University of Maryland while earning a dual Bachelor of Science in chemistry and zoology, graduating summa cum laude. When an advisor suggested that he may be interested in medicine since it integrates nearly all fields of science, Dr. Bogdan had an "Aha!" moment.

"I began volunteering at a hospital working Saturday nights from 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. I missed a lot of college parties doing this, but it confirmed that medicine was the right path for me," he shares.

Dr. Bogdan went on to earn a medical degree and complete a residency in plastic surgery at Stanford University School of Medicine. He was drawn to plastic surgery due to the diversity and complexity, and for a detail-oriented perfectionist like Dr. Bogdan, the exacting nature of plastic surgery made it a great fit.

After spending 11 years at Stanford, Dr. Bogdan headed to Manhattan to complete an aesthetic surgery fellowship at the prestigious Manhattan Eye, Ear & Throat Hospital at New York University Medical Center. He is one of the few plastic surgeons who have undergone formal post-graduate training in aesthetic surgery.

"Plastic surgery residency primarily focuses on reconstructive work. A fellowship in cosmetic surgery provided more extensive training in aesthetic surgery," he explains.

PATIENTS TRUST DR. BOGDAN

Since founding his Southlake practice in 2008, Dr. Bogdan has earned the trust of countless patients. With his fellowship training in cosmetic surgery, and focusing 100 percent of his practice on cosmetic surgery, he has mastered short operative times, which yield consistent, safe results with a fast recovery. Known for his artistry, surgical precision, and attention to detail, he performs everything from extensive facial rejuvenation and rhinoplasty, to mommy-makeover procedures with remarkably natural looking outcomes.

"My approach is to build a trusting, collaborative relationship with my patients," Dr. Bogdan says. "My team and I strive to provide exceptional patient care in a welcoming environment, and to deliver a patient experience that is positive and enjoyable."

FAMILY MAN, EDUCATOR, INNOVATOR, GIFTED PLASTIC SURGEON

Dr. Bogdan and his family have lived in DFW since 2008. "We moved here for the kids and we love it!" he says. He and his wife have two boys, ages 16 and 17, who attend the Texas Academy of Math and Science in Denton.

When he isn't helping patients or spending time with his family, Dr. Bogdan's busy serving on the Board of Directors of both the American Society for Aesthetic Plastic Surgery (ASAPS)—which provides continuing education in cosmetic surgery for 2,600 board-certified plastic surgeons—and the Aesthetic Surgery Education and Research Foundation (ASERF), which funds research related to cosmetic procedures and technology. Passionate about lifelong education, Dr. Bogdan teaches surgical techniques to surgeons from around the world at both the Dallas Rhinoplasty and Dallas Cosmetic Symposium, and recently completed an executive MBA at the University of Texas.

"WHAT WILL I LOOK LIKE AFTER PLASTIC SURGERY?"

Dr. Bogdan will help you answer this question. He uses a Vectra XT 3D imaging system to simulate anticipated results for a variety of procedures so you can see your potential results before surgery.
